In 2025, the company will launch various initiatives to issue stocks and raise capital in a traditional and non-traditional manner. (i) To recruit associates in the U.S. to grow its distribution channel. Associates will be compensated in cash and with stocks via the option pool. This will give Lendinero greater strength by having associates and referral partners that have a vested interest in the company. (ii) The company will issue stocks to a proposed board of advisors and individuals that can add value to the company. (iii) The company will make available convertible notes to its clients with a 17% annual return with 50% of the principal balance secured via its net assets and the end of year 1 if the other 50% of the principal balance is not paid it will be converted to stocks. This offers a great incentive for clients to do business with Lendinero because they can obtain a return on investment or have equity in the

Upon reaching certain targets via these initiatives the company plans on raising $200,000 to $1 million in cash via regulation CF of the SEC. Said capital will be utilized to enhance technology feature, hire specialized personnel in online marketing, programmers and leaders in Latin America to head specialized teams to market niche products and niche target markets. During this process, the company plans on raising capital from private equity funds or institutional investors to fund a loyal clientele base that acquire $4 million in funding on annual basis. Currently the company earns on an average 5% from brokering its loyal clientele base. By funding its loyal clientele base the company can generate gross, 9%. this will increase profits by 100% via this initiative. At the same the institutional or equity fund investors obtain an attractive return of 12% backed by partial collateral and the clients can obtain a 19% annual rate on their loans as opposed to paying 25% to 35% on annual basis by brokering our loyal clientele base. In summary, these initiatives over the next two years should increase the company's valuation based on cash flow alone, without considering intangible assets or intrinsic value.

The founder believes that for the last 10 years not having partners or shareholders has contributed to the cash flow success of the company. The founder believes that anyone who wants to obtain voting rights must add excessive value to the company. For instance, if an individual can obtain a bank partnership on bank denials or to comply with CRM and said partnership can generate 300 to 500 loan applications per month, that is excessive value. If an individual can have access to assure that the company can be featured monthly on Univision.com that is excessive value. If an individual is an influencer and has 1 million plus followers and 30% are within our target market and they feature lendinero weekly that is excessive value. Otherwise, cash will not resolve the growth objectives of the company. The founder seeks individuals and investors who not only can contribute cash, but that can also add excessive value. The company is financially healthy and is not strapped for cash.
